Unified-E Standard License

The Unified-E Standard License is the ideal gateway solution for plants with multiple operator devices and remote access support. Secure communication via the internet is enabled through the Unified-E App Manager server software. This may require router or firewall configurations. The Standard License is perfect for applications such as operating multiple devices simultaneously or remote monitoring via smartphones or tablets. With its universal recipe management, the license supports the creation of operator interfaces for FDA-compliant machines (FDA 21 CFR Part 11).

All essential applications—Unified-E App Designer, Unified-E App Manager, and Unified-E App Client—are included at no additional cost. Operator apps are created in the App Designer, installed on the gateway PC, and accessed by operator devices registered with the App Manager. This setup ensures a centralized and secure communication infrastructure between operator devices and endpoints.

The license includes online services such as push notifications and is therefore only available as a subscription. It is licensed to the gateway PC, based on the number of registered operator devices.
